

Patricia Altea Manzano

I am originally from Spain. I obtained my PhD in Biomedicine in Granada (Spain) at the Centre for Genomics and Oncological Research (GENYO) in 2017. After, I obtained a second Master's degree in Clinical trials at the University of Sevilla (Spain) and worked for one year at the Department of Internal Medicine and Endocrinology. In 2018, I moved to Belgium to start a postdoctoral position in the Lab of Prof. Sarah-Maria Fendt at VIB-KU Leuven Center for Cancer Biology. Currently, I am still in Prof. Fendt's lab as a senior postdoctoral researcher but looking for a new step in my scientific career.
